Excerpt: . . . look for these in the outcrops near to Port Dinorwic, which have far more bearing on the question So far as I can discover from his paper, he has left them unvisited. Nevertheless, in a matter where the evidence before one can only be imperfect, it is possible to get sometimes to a right conclusion by a wrong method, and sometimes to a wrong conclusion by a right method; and in this case I must frankly confess that, while repudiating Dr. Roberts arguments, I admit the substantial correctness of his conclusion as regards the Twt Hill conglomerate. I have, however, altered my views for reasons which are more satisfactory to my own mind than any which he has advanced. They are: (1) because from prolonged study of the microscopic structure of metamorphic rocks, I have become more doubtful of the possibility of two such beds...
