At first the spelling and writing may be quite faulty, but must be overlooked to some extent. Written expression and frequent drills will in a short time remedy this natural defect. The plans of this book are based on the outlines for the second and third years of the Illinois State Course of Study, and the material for every lesson is given. They are adaptable, however, to any course of study. The Perry or Brown pictures may be used for picture studies at but a very small cost. Every child should have a composition tablet in which to write and keep each day s work. Acknowledgments are made to authors and publishers of poems and stories from which selections have been used.
