Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Water Resources of the State of New York: With a Compliments of Conservation Commission State of New York The people of the State of New York have a deep natural interest in the important economic problems now brought so forcibly to the attention of the American people through the agency of what has appropriately been termed the conservation movement. That interest is properly manifested at this time because, in all probability, no State in the Union is invested with conditions so favorable and opportunities so promising for the early accomplishment of material progress in the practical conservation of one of its most valuable natural resources. In New York State the surface water supply as a natural resource is second in value only to the land itself, which indeed owes its value largely to the existence of such an abundant natural water supply. It must be conceded that the value of water for potable and domestic purposes cannot be estimated in dollars and cents, constituting as it does a necessity of life for which no substitute exists. Its money value is represented by whatever it costs to obtain the supply, be that much or little. Aside from any such consideration as this, water is practically the only natural resource within the State of New York for the development of power, that great and fundamental requisite to the prosperity and comfort of a civilized community. The State does not have enough coal of its own to operate its existing iron mines, to say nothing of mining the whole of the valuable deposit, estimated at three hundred million tons. This condition is compensated for in a large measure...
