It is worthy of special note that, in the experiments of these last observers, blood-vessels had not developed between the cover-glasses even by the eighteenth day. The new connective-tissue is called inflammatory or scar-tissue. At first it is highly vascular, a recent scar being redder than the surrounding parts; but the tendency to contract is characteristic of this new fibrous tissue, and as this proceeds vessels disappear and the scar, in the course of some weeks or months, becomes white as compared with surrounding parts. This contractwn of scar-tissue may produce serious results, such as the gravest deformities, or atrophy of the essential epithelial elements of glands (see Cirrhosis of the Liver ). The contraction is most marked where the tissues are loose, as about the scrotum. It appears...
